Minden sewage system in debt, MOE blamed

Woods Gordon report says council was not aware of huge cost increases, debt financing

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

Ontario's environment ministry should share the responsibility for inaccurate calculations and estimates which have resulted in a $320,000 deficit in the operation of Minden's sewage system, a recent report claims. The report, written by the accounting firm of Woods, Gordon for Minden council, says the municipality was not told of major cost overruns during construction of the sewer system in 1977 and was not made aware that deficit financing was used to minimize the initial user fees. As a result, although the municipality is legally bound to pay the costs of the facility regardless of rates supplied by the ministry, the report asks that the $320,000 debt be forgiven in return for an agreement by council to accept total future operational and financial control of the facility.

Plans for the installation of a sewage system in Minden began in the early 1970's. At that time, the project was recommended and heavily supported by the Ministry of the Environment. Ministry staff made most technical decisions and financial projections. When the project was completed in 1978, the Ministry of the Environment took responsibility for the long term debt and operation of the system and was in turn allowed to charge costs to the municipality based on its usage of the system. In December of 1983, however, council was told that billing would no longer be based on usage but would be an annual charge for service regardless of flow. In addition, the charge for 1984 as established by the Ministry, would be more than double the 1983 charge. At the same time, the municipality was also informed of a $320,000 accumulated deficit in operating costs.

According to the Woods Gordon report, the deficit which the township is now responsible for is the result of inaccurate financial models and errors in estimates made by the Ministry. In 1973, the report states, the Ministry of the Environment estimated capital costs of the project at $1,972,131, which, after grants would require a normal residential charge of $132.89. Contracts for the project were let in the following year, at which time the municipality was informed that costs for the project would be

$2,216,899. The actual cost of the project, however, was $4,154,040, an increase that the municipality was not made aware of.

Despite the substantially higher project costs, the Ministry's financial projections indicated that the figure of $132.89 per user set in 1973 was still inadequate. Over the next four years the municipality paid all billings, apparently not realizing that the difference between these billings and the Ministry's actual costs was creating a deficit which would be charged to Minden sewer system account at a later date. Since council did not understand the deficit financing used by the Ministry, it assumed any cost differences were absorbed by the province.

In an attempt to compensate for the increased service charge imposed by the Ministry for 1984, council has increased user fees by 75 percent and will apply unconditional grants totalling $15,000 against the sewage account. Despite these actions, revenues in 1984 will fall $25,000 short of the required amount.

The report notes that the increase in user rates will allow the municipality to meet current debt and operating costs. It also states, however, that the $320,000 deficit could not be paid under such terms. The report also draws attention to the fact that in 1971, the Township refused to proceed with the installation of a proposed sewage system when the estimated cost was set at $218 per user. Woods Gordon suggest that the project that began in 1977 may not have received council's approval if the actual costs of the venture had been made known.

The report, which has been endorsed by council, will be submitted to the Ministry of the Environment for consideration. If after one month the Ministry has failed to respond, or disagrees with the report's recommendations, council will attempt to meet with Minister of the Environment Andrew Brandt to discuss the matter.

gifts that were presented during the evening. In the background is a display hearkening back to the one room school house in Harburn where Doug Hodgson first taught in 1946. The oil painting on the easel was presented at a reception earlier in the day.

Local Liberals set to choose their candidate

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

In anticipation of the upcoming federal election, the Victoria-Haliburton Liberal Association has announced its plans to hold a nomination convention in Lindsay at the end of this month. During the convention, party members will have an opportunity to hear both from nominators, who are entitled to speak on behalf of their candidate, as well as from the candidates themselves. If there is more than one candidate a decision will be made through a vote by secret ballot.

In addition to choosing a candidate, time will also be set aside at the meeting for guests and members to meet with the newly elected candidate and to discuss issues which concern the riding.

At present, Bruce Glass, a lawyer from Lindsay and member of the riding executive, is the only candidate who has announced his intent to seek the nomination. Glass, who was born in Toronto, has lived in Lindsay for the past 30 years and has been involved in a number of community activities. Glass feels the most important issue in the upcoming election is the financial security of Canadians.

"We want to feel secure that we can continue to have a good standard of living. To do that, we must be prepared to develop new ideas and become more competitive in international trade. Basically, we are going to have to hustle for business," he said in a recent press release.

Pergolas wants more spending control

Many purchases called 'unnecessary', return to order system advocated

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas has urged the members of Anson, Hindon and Minden council to "take a hard look" at the system now being used to purchase goods on municipal accounts. Reviewing the bills for the past month, Pergolas drew attention to a number of purchases made by municipal employees which he felt were unnecessary or too costly. "We've already spent over $10,000 at Home Hardware this year," he noted. "Last time I counted we had bought 42 hammers," he said, and added that he wanted to know why he had not received his hammer yet. Pergolas said municipal employees are following the motto "If you can't find it, buy it."

At present, purchases made on municipal accounts must be approved by a supervisor only after the goods have been bought. Councillor Dave Stevens recommended that the municipality return to the purchase order system used previously as a way to control buying. "We're buying a lot of things that are not necessary," he said.

Reeve Lyle McKnight agreed with Pergolas and Stevens that changes in the system needed to be made. "There's no control," he said. "You wouldn't run your own business and let guys you hired buy whatever they wanted at the hardware store with your money," he pointed out.

Stevens' suggestion that a purchase order be considered was supported by Pergolas who said such a system would allow spending to be reviewed before purchases are made, rather than after the goods have been bought.

Although all five members of council expressed concern regarding the system now being used, no decision was reached as to how the present situation might be altered.

Van rolls, man killed near Dorset

A 23 year old Willowdale man died near Dorset early Saturday morning when the van in which he was a passenger went out of control and rolled over. Allen Stuart Ross Ailles was thrown between the steering wheel and the seat of a 1975 Dodge van and died of a probable broken neck. The mishap occurred on County Road 8 (Minden Bay Road) in Sherborne Township at about 1:40 a.m.

Police say the vehicle was being driven by 19 year old Kimberly Ann Hermack of Scarborough, an inexperienced driver who was later charged with operating a vehicle without a license.

Arguments delay ski trail

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

Plans by the Municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden to construct a cross country ski trail have been delayed due to difficulties in securing clearances from private landowners. Although work on the trail is scheduled to begin this summer, Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas, who is chairman of the Parks Committee, said agreements must be made with a number of local residents who own property that the trail would cross before construction can begin. Pergolas added that the municipality has spoken with most owners, but said as yet nothing has been formalized.

Concern that the project might be endangered was first expressed at a meeting of council last week. At this time, council was unable to reach an agreement with Dave Stevens, owner of the Beaverbrook Golf Course, concerning permission for the trail to run through a section of his property. Lawyer Ross Wittington, who spoke on Stevens' behalf, rejected council's proposal of a 99 year lease, saying that such a long term agreement would be comparable to "carving it in stone." Wittington explained that Stevens' major concern is that skiers may leave the trail and vandalize his property. Although the agreement put forward by the municipality states that it would be responsible for any damages, he pointed out that to collect on such an agreement Stevens would be forced to sue the municipality. As an alternative, Wittington said Stevens would be willing to permit the municipality to use the land in question for 10 years, with the understanding that if no damage has been done by skiers during this time, the agreement would be extended for an additional 10 years.

During debate on the matter, Pergolas pointed out that the land in question is not near the golf course and therefore less likely to lead to damages. Pergolas also defended the municipality's request for a 99 year lease, saying such an agreement is necessary to protect the municipality's investment. He asked what would happen if the municipality were to spend thousands of dollars on a ski trail, only to have the agreement terminated. Without any long term agreement as to the use of private lands, Pergolas said he would not be in favour of constructing the trail at all.

Councillor Gary Kenney expressed concern during the discussion that those involved were "trivializing the importance of the ski trails." Kenney said the ski trails would help local business and aid commercial development. The trail, Kenney said, would attract additional people to the area, an outcome which Kenney noted would benefit Stevens.

Debate on the topic was ended by Reeve Lyle McKnight who suggested that the Parks Department be instructed to look into agreements with other landowners involved in the construction of the trail. A letter of intent, outlining the terms of Stevens' alternative proposal was also requested, with the understanding that no decision would be made until council had an idea of what others who would be affected by the trail would be willing to agree to.

The proposed trail is part of a larger plan for a Nordic ski trail that would span the entire county, by linking existing trails as well as constructing new ones. The section affected by the current negotiations would begin at the Minden arena, run beside Beaver Creek and would then cut through bush to reach the Scotch Line. A bridge over the creek has already been constructed by the municipality with the aid of a provincial grant. The clearing of the route, if the necessary permissions are obtained, will be conducted by Katimavik workers.

Retiring director of education warmly praised

A 38 year career in education ends for J. Douglas Hodgson Retiring director of education J. Douglas Hodgson was honoured Saturday at an afternoon open house and an evening banquet attended by many of his friends and associates.

The afternoon gathering took place at the former senior elementary school which has recently been given his name. Highlighting the occasion was the presentation of an original oil painting to the outgoing director and his wife Barbara. MP Bill Scott also was on hand to pay his respects to Doug Hodgson and to present him with a framed certificate praising his contribution to the educational system in Haliburton County.

In the evening, more than 200 invited guests gathered at the Legion auditorium for a banquet at which a number of speakers drew attention to the highlights of Hodgson's 38 year career as an educator and administrator.

Board chairman Bonnie Lee Berry presented him with an old, hand rung school bell on behalf of Haliburton County students, past and present.

Provincial education ministry representative John Storey handed over a scroll on behalf of the Minister of Education, Dr. Bette Stephenson, who had been invited to the gathering but was unable to attend.

MPP John Eakins also sent his regrets, noting in a letter read by master of ceremonies Stuart Baker that he was visiting "distant relatives" in Ottawa, a reference to the federal Liberal leadership convention.

Gordon Sharpless, former attendance councillor and transportation supervisor for Haliburton County who retired last year, said it had been a pleasure to work with Doug Hodgson over the years, noting that there was "never a dull day" in the board office. He said the outgoing director always worked hard on behalf of the students of Haliburton County and took great pride in their accomplishments.

One of the most unusual gifts

Earlier, in an interview at the board office, he looked back on his 38 years in education, and talked about some of the highlights of his long career.

Doug Hodgson says he has always prided himself on being "a Haliburton boy." His roots go back to the early days of the county's history, when logging was the mainstay of the local economy.

His great grandfather settled in Haliburton in 1867, the year Canada became a nation. Over the years the Hodgson family played an active role in local affairs. His mother, Phyllis Hodgson, was chairman of the Dysart Township school area board. His father, Clayton, was a Dysart councillor and later became member of Parliament for the Doug Hodgson addresses a group of more than 200 friends and associates who gathered in Haliburton Saturday night for a banquet in his honour. He is retiring as director of education in Haliburton County, a job he has held for the past 15 years.

A life spent 'helping young people to achieve their best' presented to the retiring director came from music teacher Bill Gliddon, who composed a work especially for the evening, and had it printed and bound. Entitled 'Qualities, Opus II', the work combined piano and choral music with prose vignettes. Assisting in its presentation were trustee Julie Hunter, who handled the singing parts and board office secretary Joan Fennell, who recited the prose portions of the work.

Principals of schools under the board's jurisdiction also presented the retiring director with a number of gifts on behalf of their staff.

John Bumister, vice president of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, also was on hand for the evening. A personal friend of the Hodgson family, Bumister presented a plaque on behalf of the bank's president.

In responding to the tributes, the retiring director thanked the people he has worked with over the years who have contributed to his success. He also expressed appreciation to the board of education for giving his name to the former senior elementary school in Haliburton. He said he hoped that when youngsters attend the school they will say 'here is a person who went to school in Haliburton County and who made it to the top position' in the county educational system.

In concluding his remarks, Hodgson said that he is "so grateful to have spent my life trying to help young people achieve their best."

riding.

Despite the success he achieved in the profession, Doug Hodgson did not plan from his earliest years to be a teacher. While growing up and attending local schools, he worked in his father's lumbering business, as did other youngsters in the Hodgson family. Having finished Grade 12, he was given the opportunity of attending Upper Canada College in Toronto for Grade 13, and to this day he remains the only local resident to have been enrolled at the prestigious boys' school.

In June, 1946 he returned to Haliburton and went to work in his father's saw mill at Hall's Lake, trying at the same time to improve his French, the one credit he lacked for university.

It was the second week of September, and there were still two schools in the county which lacked teachers. Archie Stouffer, school inspector for the area, phoned Doug Hodgson's mother, who was then chairman of the school board, to ask if Doug would be interested in taking one of the positions.

When he came home from the camp that weekend, his mother told him about the call. His father asked how much the job paid, and when he heard that it was about $1300, he suggested that Doug stay at the mill, since the money was no better than the salary he was already earning.

"People were scarce for workers for all jobs during those times," Doug Hodgson says, explaining his father's attitude.

But his mother pointed out that if he went into teaching, he would continue studying, learning and reading. And she said there was plenty of time for him to get back into his father's lumbering business later.

"So mother prevailed," Hodgson says. "I had the choice of two schools. There was Harburn, and there was a school out at Hall's Lake, and I could take whichever one I wanted. I chose Harburn because it was just 10 miles from home. The road wasn't plowed all winter and I had to ski all the time back and forth."

The next year he enrolled at Queen's University. There his interest in history was nurtured, an interest that has not lessened over the years. After graduating from Queen's, he spent a year at the Ontario College of Education.

Even after his experience at the Harburn School the decision to get a teaching qualification was not a simple one, however. Law also held an appeal, so the summer after his Queen's graduation, he visited Osgoode Hall law school in Toronto to get an application form. While there, he also visited OCE. A secretary told him it was too late to apply but the Dean overheard the conversation, and called him into his office. It turned out the Dean had a cottage on Redstone Lake and knew Haliburton County well.

"Why do you want to be a teacher?" he asked. Hodgson replied that he had already been a teacher, although he had no training for it at the time. He said he had visited Osgoode Hall and was thinking of becoming a lawyer.

The Dean told Hodgson to forget the idea of attending Osgoode Hall. His advice was to "get into something where you could do something for the people of Haliburton County," Hodgson recalls.

He came back to Haliburton, thought the matter over, and made his decision. He would become a teacher.

In September, 1952 he took a job at Wilmot Township High School in Plattville, Ontario. A year later he returned to Haliburton to teach at the newly opened Haliburton County District High School under principal Norm Sisco.

In September, 1955 he taught for a year at Stratford Collegiate, then it was back to Haliburton and the local high school once again, in September, 1956. By 1959 he had completed a principal's course, and Yet as an administrator, you have the advantage of being able to put your own philosophies into practice, Hodgson says. As a teacher, "you're often the victim of strategies and philosophies that other people devise."

Throughout his administrative career, Doug Hodgson has tried to strike a balance between the force of his own ideas and the need for compromise.

"One thing that I learned very, very early was - don't be afraid to say 'I'm wrong'," he says. At the same time, he never shied away from an argument if there was an important principle at issue.

In his role as director, Hodgson presided over a number of substantial changes in the educational system, changes which have reshaped the way youngsters are taught.

Most important of these has been

'You can't cut corners when it comes to the education of children' accepted the principal's position at Millbrook high school.

"I got the job by default," he recalls. The school was overcrowded, teaching conditions were poor, and other people who considered the job were unwilling to accept it.

Despite the challenges, Hodgson says he had "fantastic good fortune" at Millbrook. Many of the original staff left, and the new teachers he was able to hire improved the academic level of the school. In the four years he was principal, the students of Millbrook school garnered several academic prizes offered by county officials, Hodgson recalls.

In September, 1963, he came back to Haliburton once again, this time to become principal of Haliburton's high school. In January, 1969 became Haliburton County's first director of education, the job from which he will retire at the end of this month.

"It fills me with a certain amount of pride to have risen to the top of my profession in my own home community," Hodgson says.

There is a price to be paid for success as an administrator, however. In education, Hodgson says, the nearer you are to students, the more enjoyable it is. Each step up the chain of command takes you farther away from the day to day challenges, and the subtle rewards, of classroom teaching.

Bill 82, the act which states that local boards must provide education suited to the needs of every student, no matter what their limitations or exceptionalities may be.

As a result of Bill 82 "we're looking at students on an individual basis far more than we ever did before," Hodgson says. "It will have far ranging effects on the school system for a long time."

The new OSIS document also will alter not so much the way students are taught, but what they are taught. It places greater emphasis on core curriculum, and reduces the number of options a student can choose.

On the local level, the board moved to consolidate schools early in Doug Hodgson's tenure as director. Small schools in several communities were phased out, Archie Stouffer School was expanded, and the senior elementary school was built in Haliburton. As a result, youngsters were given access to better facilities and wider educational opportunities. Implementation of a policy of Kindergarten to Grade 4 schools in some communities enabled schools to remain open which might otherwise have been uneconomic to operate.

"I also feel good that in the early years...I was able to work hard enough to keep the system going

In control

Anson, Hindon and Minden council once again finds itself grappling with financial gremlins that have been haunting the municipality in one form or another for a number of years. This time the problems are twofold, one serious, the other not quite so dramatic, but perhaps no less significant.

Council's greatest money problem at the moment concerns the sewer system. Built by the Ministry of the Environment, the system provides an important service for the community, and no one doubts that it was needed. But now it appears that council is being saddled with a huge debt burden as a result of construction costs overruns when the work was carried out in 1978. When contracts were let in 1976, council was told that the system would cost a little over $2.2 million. Actual project costs quickly escalated to $4.1 million, an excess over estimates of almost 100 percent. Billings were established based on the original cost estimates, and these have been paid by council, who apparently were not made aware that the shortfall between costs and payments would have to be made up at some later date. User charges were increased this year by a whopping 75 percent to meet increased billing by the MOE, but council still faces a shortfall of $25,000 on 1984 revenues and a deficit of $320,000 which cannot be met under the present rates.

Reasons for this disturbing situation have not yet been made clear. A report by the accounting firm of Woods Gordon, commissioned by council, places some of the blame on the ministry, noting that errors were made in cost estimates. But it also notes that council was "not aware" of the cost overruns, inaccurate user charge estimates, and the use of deficit financing by the MOE. Ratepayers may well ask why these problems have taken fully six years to come to the forefront.

A second disturbing matter discussed at council recently was the fact that purchases have been made by municipal employees without proper controls being exercised. Deputy reeve Ed Pergolas said more than $10,000 has been spent at one hardware store alone, and that the municipality has bought something like 40 hammers in the last few months. While this is easy to joke about, it is no laughing matter.

To their credit, the present council is not responsible for things that have occurred before their term, and it can take time for even the most vigilant councillors to uncover problems like those discussed last week. Ultimately, the present council may be judged by how successfully it comes to terms with these disquieting examples of poor financial control.

A blight

It's time that Ontario Hydro moved to prosecute people who insist on plastering every pole in every little community with posters advertising some upcoming event or other. The practice is unsightly and downright inconsiderate, especially since no one who puts the posters up ever troubles themselves to take them down again once the event is over.

The worst offenders among the pole plasterers are the people who promote such dubious entertainment as rock concerts at the Minden arena. While they take tens of thousands of dollars out of the community, they refuse to spend even a few hundred dollars in it. Instead of advertising in local newspapers, they staple ads to hydro poles. And even though there is a law which prohibits the practice, nothing is done to enforce it. That should change, and soon. Local citizens should rip down every poster they see, and complain to Ontario Hydro as well. Maybe then something will be done to end a hideous practice.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

This letter is in support of the concerned parent, regarding her child's treatment recently at one of the schools in Haliburton.

I hope this is an isolated incident.

If a rule is necessary, concerning offensive odours, I would think a private discussion with the student and/or the parent, would be sufficient. There seems no need for public embarrassment to any student.

I assume that if these rules are necessary, they apply to all concerned at the school, including the teachers, and would include all offensive odours, including cigarette smoking.

Sincerely,
Diane Arppe

To The Editor:

The following is an open letter to the people of Wilberforce, Harcourt and Haliburton:

I was the pilot of the light aircraft that was forced to land near the village of Wilberforce on April 23. Much has occurred since that evening seven weeks ago when I "dropped in" on your lives, yet the event remains, and will always remain fresh in my mind. The one thing that I'll never forget is the warmth, concern and support you gave me.

In this fast paced world it is easy to pass someone by who needs help or to find an excuse to not get involved. But it certainly doesn't happen in your communities and if there was an award for "Caring for Others" you'd win first prize. I'd like to thank all who helped, offered help or even gave kind words to a "shaken" pilot. I'd especially like to thank the Burroughs family, Joe, Donna and their kids; Ken Sanderson, Harry Clarke, O.P.P. Cst. Mike Legge, the staff of the volunteer fire department and the people of the Haliburton airfield. Thank you.

I hope to be able to repay the kindness someday.

Small town living has some enormous limitations, particularly if your interests stretch to classical music, theatre, art and a host of other culturally and intellectually enriching pursuits. Job opportunities are limited, and restlessness is endemic among people for whom success will always be measured at least partly in terms of challenges met and money earned. But there are compensations to small town life which are less easily measured though no less keenly felt. One of them is that people are bound together in a web of friendship and responsibility that defines a community's character. To the extent that good people express in their lives and their work what is right and just, a small town can be a place of warmth and love. And no where has that been more obvious in Haliburton recently than at the open house and dinner Saturday in honour of retiring director of education Doug Hodgson. In a career that spanned some 38 years, Doug Hodgson never wavered in his conviction that local students deserved the best education that a publicly funded system could provide. While the schools under his leadership as principal and later as director of education responded to the demands of changing times, he strove to ensure that the concept of a well rounded education was not forgotten. And in doing so, he gained the respect of all who met him. The tributes that were paid to him as he prepares to retire to a less stressful life were sincerely felt. Only in a small community could one man's ideas and dedication have played such an important role in shaping the quality of life for two generations of citizens. And only in a small community could the respect and affection of those people have been so well expressed as it was at the retirement festivities for Doug Hodgson.

Local ball fans are really starting to get excited about the fact that the Toronto Blue Jays at the present time are only a few games out of first place in the American League. They only have to overtake one obstacle and that's a big one and it's those Detroit Tigers who are off on one of the fastest starts in American League history. If the Jays were in any other division and this includes the National League they would be way out in front and in first place. In conversation with several local baseball fans I was quite surprised to hear of the number who have already been down to Toronto to see the team in action while others have tickets for future games. It has taken this ball club a few years to get in the groove but this young team loaded with talent seems to have found the winning formula to knock in those runs and win games. Who knows, we may see a World Series game in Toronto a lot sooner than we think. Just to show you how popular this team has become it seems that everywhere you go to the Blue Jays these days seem to be on the top of the conversation list. Last Saturday for instance a gentleman visiting the area had just finished having his breakfast at the Kozy Korner Restaurant and when he was leaving I overheard him say that he had to get a Toronto Star to see how the Blue Jays had made out in a game played the previous evening against the Boston Red Sox in Toronto. Oh, by the way, the Jays won that game too.

Max Strang was in the office the other day and pointed out to me that the person in the photo that was in a feature article in the Echo on May 30 re: the Rotary Club of Haliburton's 40th Anniversary showing the members at a meeting in the early days was Ken Smith, the District Governor at that time. He was a personal friend of Mr. Strang and he was the one person who we were unable to identify in this particular photo.

The Kawartha Lakes "Ontario Open" Fiddle and Step Dance committee are pleased to announce that the contestant entry fees from the 1984 contest will be donated to the Victoria County Disaster Trust Fund. This is in keeping with their policy of supporting community projects.

I was certainly pleased to have been in attendance at the second annual "Praise for Pentecost" community service which was held at the High School on Sunday evening, June 10. Not only was I inspired by the stirring message delivered by Bishop Desmond Hunt but was thrilled by the toe tapping music of St. George's Anglican Church Gospel Choir and Band. This group under the direction of Rev. John Phillips makes gospel singing come alive.

One thing that really disturbs me is when I walk up and down the main streets of Minden and Haliburton and see the beautiful store front windows all cluttered up with everything from posters and signs to old envelopes with something scratched on them that says a certain person is trying to get rid of a kitchen table or what have you. Some of these windows have so many of these posters stuck on them that it becomes very hard to see what the merchant has to offer in his window display. One or two of these posters might be alright but if I were a business person uptown I would tell some of these people to go and peddle these papers elsewhere. This is what we have a newspaper for so that people have the opportunity to advertise their event or product each and every week. The next time you come downtown take a look at some of these windows and see what a mess these posters make.

While still on the subject of being annoyed, I must say that another one of pet beefs is to see the way that posters are allowed to be tacked up on hydro poles when I understand that it is against the law to do so. When is the hydro going to come along and say that enough is enough and that it's time that we put an end to this practice? If it's against the law to put posters or what have you on hydro poles then let's see that this law is abided by.

The Rotary Club of Haliburton were honoured on Thursday evening, June 7 to have Len and Kit Pizzev present at their meeting to give an interesting and very educational presentation of their recent trip around the world. On this particular visit they gave a fascinating slide show and commentary of the African part of their world tour. I wasn't present at the meeting but they tell me that the quality of the photography was superb and the commentary just as good. Len tells me that if your service club or organization would like to view this slide presentation of their trip around the world that he would be only too happy to accommodate you.

Queen's Park Report

Youth Unemployment

Statistics released in the Legislature on students registered with Canada Employment centres showed that, of the 34,553 registered in Toronto, only 9,435 found work. Of 12,127 registered in Ottawa, 1,410 obtained work, of 7,106 registered in Hamilton only 1,906 were successful. The figures for Windsor were 806 out of 3,797, for Peterborough 677 out of 2,994. Noting that the Metro Social Planning Council has expressed the view that 778,000 youths are unemployed in Canada, as opposed to the 533,000 reported by Ottawa, David Peterson asked the Treasurer how many young people are really unemployed in Ontario and how he planned to "attack this real problem." The treasurer stated that the government will create more than 100,000 jobs "for those young people", but not just short-term jobs which fail to solve the youth unemployment problem. He referred to measures in his budget of last month, which "will take a lot of those young people and give them educational upgrading, job training, job experience and some jobs." In his view that was the right approach whether there are 169,000 young people unemployed in Ontario, or 180,000.

Workers' Compensation

Opposition Members have charged that the long-awaited amendments to the Ontario workers' compensation system ignore the most crucial problems facing workers. In tabling amendments which were four years in the making, the Minister of Labour disregarded the core of recommendations made in two reports to the government by law professor Paul Weiler. In his two reports on permanent partial disabilities and industrial disease, Weiler made recommendations which would affect more than 80,000 workers, who form the majority of people on compensation, and suffer from permanent partial disabilities. The Minister claimed that the government has decided on a "phased program of reform" to implement "two basic thrusts" which emerged from the Weiler studies, the first of which was to make the Workers' Compensation Board "more open and responsive to client needs." In his view, the structural changes effectively meet this demand, including the creation of an independent tripartite appeal tribunal with provision for independent medical opinion, a new panel to advise on criteria for compensation victims of industrial disease, and the inclusion of domestic workers under the act. The so-called "meat chart" was the second area of concern. This chart determines how much a worker may be compensated depending on which organ or limb has been lost or disabled, and injured workers as well as Workers' Compensation Board officials have long agreed that the chart is an unfair system. Weiler proposed that the meat chart be replaced with a dual award system under which workers would receive a lump-sum payment for physical injury plus continuing benefits based on actual wage loss - a scheme which would direct more money to people who were unemployed and less to those who were back at work.

Report from Parliament

By Bill Scott M.P.

For the past 19 years I, as your M.P., have had the pleasure of witnessing all the beauty that the Parliament Buildings, and indeed all of Parliament Hill offers. As Canadians, we can all be proud of these symbols of our great country and of the historic democratic process they represent.

For this reason, I was quite concerned during the imposition of the War Measures Act as it imposed undue security which disrupted the public's use of the grounds of Parliament.

Now, another event is continuing which restricts the use of these taxpayer supported public grounds. On June 1, I rose in the House of Commons, and addressed a question to the Minister of Public Works in this regard. The text is as follows: Parliament Hill - Authority for Use by Peace Camp - Mr. W.C. Scott (Victoria-Haliburton): Mr. Speaker, my question is for the Minister of Public Works. Each day as I come from the Confederation Building I notice a mini camp-ground in front of the entrance to this great place, the House of Commons. I understand that the grounds are under the Minister's jurisdiction, and I ask him to clarify the status of the public grounds around Parliament Hill. Do these members of a special interest group have an agreement with Public Works, or are they paying rent? Hon. Romeo LeBlanc (Minister of Public Works): Mr. Speaker, I presume the Hon. Member is referring to what has commonly become known as the Peace Camp. Am I correct? This situation arose quite a long time ago, as the Hon. Member knows. In fact it lasted throughout the winter. Perhaps the Hon. Member knows that under the previous administrative arrangements there was a committee composed of a number of Departments which, in fact, gave permission for the initial demonstration or manifestation of views to place. So far the Government has not chosen to put an end to this expression of views. Mr. W.C. Scott (Victoria-Haliburton): Mr. Speaker, my supplementary question is directed to the same Minister. I would then assume that any Canadian citizen or group of Canadian citizens could apply for permission to camp there, or camp there without permission. What action would the Government take? Would they be welcome to camp there during the summer season, in particular when there are a lot of campers who would be interested in such a nice camping spot? Hon. Romeo LeBlanc (Minister of Public Works): Mr. Speaker, the NCC provides other camping facilities with somewhat better services than those provided in front of the Centennial Flame. That being said, it is because of the possibility that other groups might want to set up a permanent Hyde Park corner type of arrangement that we are reviewing the administrative processes that I mentioned earlier.

Since then, I have been approached by Members of both sides of the House expressing their support for my position. I, as other members, quite accept the right of any group to demonstrate on Parliament Hill in support of their beliefs as long as they obey the law. However, no such demonstrations should be allowed to take up permanent residence on any public properties, especially on Parliament Hill and its surroundings.

of Haliburton County, except in the general sense that some of the stories which make the news have a certain universality of experience or meaning. But his week we're excited to be able to bring you exclusive pictures of the Liberal leadership convention in Ottawa, an historic occasion the significance of which will be revealed in the months and years to come. Our representative at the convention centre in Ottawa was Steve Dawson of Haliburton. Steve is a student at Queen's University in Kingston and an avid photographer who assisted us at the Echo last summer and has been working for the university newspaper in his spare time. As the pictures included in this week's Echo show, Steve has a knack of getting into the thick of the action and coming up with images that capture the energy, tension and excitement of whatever he is covering. But then when it comes to political conventions, Steve is already an old hand. Last year he got accreditation to cover the Conservative leadership convention, at which his mother Barb was a delegate. The Echo published Steve's work then, and we're happy to do so again. We think you'll agree that Steve's pictures are an exceptionally fine documentation of an event which is of great importance to all of us, no matter what our political affiliations may be.

And while on the topic of the Liberal leadership convention, I must say that like many people, I was disappointed with the results. Had I been a delegate to the convention, I would have gone with an open mind, and after hearing the speeches on Friday night, I'd have supported Jean Chretien. There can be few more forceful, passionate or committed people in this country than the fiery populist from Shawinigan. Chretien has given his heart and mind to building a better Canada, and his record both as a man of reason and a man of principle is unimpeachable. No one deserved the leadership job more than Chretien, and no one fought harder or more worthily for it. For Canada's sake, I hope he stays in politics long enough to get another chance at the top job.

Can conservation cure cancer?

Since the turn of the century, modern chemistry has transformed the healing arts of old into an experimental science dominated by a myriad of wonder drugs. Great progress has been made in eliminating or suppressing certain illnesses, especially through the use of antibiotics.

Unfortunately, the common cold has so far eluded our pharmaceutical traps. Rising cancer rates also show that medical science is not yet out of the woods. That's not all bad of course, since it is in the woods that many herbal remedies of yesteryear and important drug discoveries of today have their roots.

One of Ontario's common flowering wild plants, the Mayapple, is the latest cause of excitement. The Mayapple is variously known as American Mandrake, Wild Lemon, Devil's Apple, Duck's Foot and Raccoon Berry or its Latin name Podophyllum peltatum.

You'll recognize Mayapple when encountering big patches of umbrella-shaped leaves. In early spring the flower bud looks like a nodding head in the crook between two such leaves. By mid summer, the waxy 6 - 9 petalled flowers have been replaced by a large lemon-like berry, which can be used to make preserves, though the rest of the plant and the green fruit are poisonous.

American Indians used the Mayapple for centuries to treat warts, deafness and parasites. Later its resin was widely marketed as a topical ointment for venereal warts, tumors and polyps.

Recently, scientists from Bristol laboratories have started selling a new drug named Vepesid, which is a largely synthetic substance derived from a natural extract of the Mayapple. And it is already billed as the next "super-star" cancer drug having proven very effective on men suffering testicular cancer. Scientists have already compared it to the Madagascar Periwinkle which dramatically increased the survival rate of leukemia victims. Mayapple also shows hopeful signs of combating viruses such as herpes.

Discoveries such as this remind us just how important plants are to our well-being. The soft green carpet of vegetation which thinly covers the earth, not only prevents soil erosion, influences climate and maintains our stock of clean, fresh water, it also prolongs our lives by supplying roughly 40% of the world's drugs.

Where does conservation fit in? Medicinal plants are in danger of disappearing as their habitat is destroyed by development. The Madagascar Periwinkle is one example of a species under the gun. Many others with great potential could disappear before we even guess it. That's why the World Wildlife Fund recently launched its international plants campaign to stop plant extinction.

I doubt that there is a single magic cure for cancer awaiting discovery. But conservation of plant diversity will help ensure that we have the means to cope with this disease and others. That's worth an awful lot.

without hiring a lot of people," he says. "My whole aim, ever since I became director of education, has been to put the bucks in the classroom." You can cut corners in an administrative office, he says, "but you can't cut corners when it comes to the education of the children in the classroom."

The local board has always had good relations with teachers, and "I take some credit for that," Hodgson says. Problems have always been dealt with "openly and in good spirits."

Although he does not have to

Haliburton Seniors take first win in Wilberforce

By HELEN BURK

On Monday, June 11, Minden Dixie Lee hosted the Haliburton Jrs. and came out on top 16-8. The Jrs. led 6-5 at the end of the third, then in the fourth Minden erupted for eight runs and never looked back after that.

Minden was led by Wendy Gough who was five for five at the plate. Barb Winn also had a perfect night at the plate. Nelda Cully and Anne Hewson shared the win while Miriam Smith took the loss.

On Tuesday night the two Minden teams played in Mitchers and it was a real pitchers' duel between Anne Hewson and Andrea Burk. The Srs. got three runs in the top of the first but the Jrs. got two of those back in the bottom of one. Then the Srs. got one run in the third and sixth and the Jrs. could only manage one run in the third. The final score was 5-3.

Wendy Gough was the big batter for the Srs. again, going four for four. Andrea Burk had a good night for the Jrs.

Haliburton Srs. got their first win of the season when they played in Wilberforce. Their bats finally got going and were led by Sheila Elston, Wanda Scott and Betty Whiteway. Chris Storey homered for Wilberforce. Wendy Roberts picked up the win while Kim Mumford took the loss. Final score was 27-9.

Thursday, June 14 the Haliburton Srs. travelled to Minden to take on the Srs. for a previously scheduled game that was rained out. After five innings it looked like Haliburton was going to have their second victory, but thanks to Harry Pye's bribe Minden blasted 12 runs in the sixth inning and went on to win 20-10.

Wendy Gough hit two home runs in the sixth with one being a grand slam. Liz Baker and Trish Slavik also had a good night for Minden. Haliburton got a good night from Sheila Elston and Wanda Scott.

Nelda Cully got the win while Wendy Roberts took the loss.

On Saturday the Minden Dixie Lee team travelled to Woodville to participate in a one day, eight team tournament. They came up against Beaverton in the first game and were beaten 14-2. This put them on the consolation side, where they went on to beat Nestleton and Little Britain to take the Consolation Championship game.

Winning pitchers were Anne Hewson and Joan McKay. Bethany Wood was named the MVP of the game on two home runs she hit in the last game.

Players who participated were Cheryl Cooper, Bethany Wood, Bev Sisson, Joan McKay, Kim Mumford, Liz Baker, Anne Hewson, Joan Alger, Cindy Roodenburg, Cory Meorinson, Trish Slavik, Barb Winn and Helen Burk.

Men are evenly matched

Three of the week's four games decided by a single run

Three of the four games in Haliburton men's fastball action last week were decided by single runs, the closest games to this point in this season.

In Tuesday night's action, Haliburton Lumber squeaked past Curry Motors 5-4 with a final inning run, while Haliburton Kinsmen hammered Beachli Construction 12-2.

On Thursday, Haliburton Lumber came out on the winning side of a 6-5 match with Beachli Construction, while in the second game, Curry Motors got by the Kinsmen 5-4.

The Lumbermen got off to a quick start in Tuesday's opener, notching two runs in the bottom of the first inning. The drive started when Bernie Nicholls was safe on a fielder's choice and advanced on a series of errors. Dwight Sisson then cracked a homer to drive Nicholls in for a 2-0 score.

Curry Motors came back to even the game with two runs in the top of the third. Barry Boice and Wade Stamp made the circuit after reaching first on an error and a walk respectively.

In the bottom of the third, Tran Larue connected with a one out double for the Lumbermen, then crossed the plate when Dave Nicholls also hit a double.

Haliburton Lumber increased their lead to two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning as Dave McKay walked, stole a base and came home with help from succeeding batters.

Curry Motors came back to tie the score at four in the top of the sixth when Duff Mitchell was walked, Terry Gaspari cracked a double, and Earl Bull connected for a two RBI single before being tagged on his way to second.

The deciding run came in the bottom of the seventh. With two out, Bernie Nicholls slammed a triple. Dwight Sisson followed up with a walk, then stole second. Leigh Bull was the hero of the night, as he connected for a single that brought Nicholls across with the game winning run.

Kinsmen 12, Beachli 2

The night's second game lacked the tension of the earlier contest, but there was plenty of action around the batters' box, as the Kinsmen piled up an even dozen runs, while holding Beachli Construction to only two.

The builders took a two run lead in their first at bat, as Bob Johnston and Mark Schell each crossed the plate. But it was all the offense they could put together.

The Kinsmen got one run in the bottom of the first as Barry Shaw notched an RBI single that scored Brian Mulholland. They added another in the second when Lyle Sawyer doubled and

The local Dixie Lee soccer team found itself scrambling hard on Sunday to match the play of Orillia City in a regular season match on the playing field at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School

Sunday afternoon. A number of spectators were on hand to cheer the local boys on, but they were unable to get a win over the visiting team.

Dixie Lee team improving

By JIM MILNE

The Dixie Lee soccer team lost a frustrating game to Orillia City last Sunday by a 4-2 margin.

Orillia opened the scoring early in the first half. Andrew Shapeira kept the team in the game by saving a penalty shot. Brian Holden tied it for the Haliburton team with a well placed kick from a free kick outside the penalty box.

Orillia went ahead again in the second half but Shaun Chapman tied it again with another long kick. At this point the home team experienced a run of bad luck. First Dixie Lee put the ball across the Orillia goal line but the referee was not in position to see the goal. Later Orillia scored from a player who seemed offside.

At this point last year Dixie Lee had a win and a tie. This year they have only one win. Every game, however, has been hard fought and the team will find things going their way. Last year they were outscored 24-6. This year they have cut that back to 21-11.

For the rest of the season practices and home games will be played in Minden because the High School field will be graded and replanted.

The first practice will be in Minden on Thursday at 7:00 p.m. and the team will play Bracebridge Juniors in Minden on Sunday.

I had to give myself a good talking to the other day. I had fallen into a rut, and lined up about 20 more projects for myself than it was possible to get done.

Of course, the whole thing turned out to be a waste of time. As is usually the case, life presented five or six complications that threw a large sized monkey-wrench into all my plans. Consequently, I got disgusted, and began grumbling to myself.

So, I said to myself, "O.K., so your rooms aren't going to be done and back together before your company comes. It's no big deal. They're not the royal family, after all. They're friends, they'll understand. And, it dawned on me, we hadn't been canoeing for two weeks.

Last week, when Ed, and number two son were down at the cabin, reminiscing while they cleaned us some bush, and tidied the grounds, I was even too busy to join the two of them around the fireplace. I missed a good time, they told me later, chatting about some of the things we had done together, when we were cottagers. We have had some great summers up here.

I remember the first time we came up as a family. My youngest was only two years old, and typically terrible. He spent most of his time harnessed up, 'cause he was incredibly fast, or I was very slow. I was sure we'd find him wading in the lake, or petting a skunk, before we left. It wasn't too relaxing. But there were no calamities, and within a couple of years, we found ourselves gradually increasing our stays, until we finally decided to escape forever.

Not that it was Shangri-la, mind you. Even then, life was not dull. There was the time the little twister passed behind the cabin and trailer. It was raining horizontally, and the cats were standing on my shoulders, claws in, and the kids were screaming almost as loud as I was, while father, and friend calmly indulged in a game of crokinole. (I never did like that game.)

Then, there was the year we decided to climb the fire tower near Haliburton Lake. I think it was Harburn tower. The fire warden was very nice about it. After a long, slow climb with the kids, he pointed out the various sights, and landmarks from that spectacular view. We gaped when a bittern flew by with a huge trout in its beak. Then it was time to climb back down, and our fun began. Ed led the descent, followed by the boys, then me, and then our daughter, who absolutely froze to the ladder about ten steps down. I have those eighty-five steps firmly etched in my mind. We counted them as we unglued her hands and feet one at a time for each step. I'm sure I found a grey hair for each one of them.

After a couple of trips to the local laundromats, I was sure there had to be a better way. I ended up with a makeshift table lined with several tubs and buckets, and an old-fashioned scrub board. My neighbour even found me a hand operated wringer, which I blessed when the teenagers discovered they could spend their lives in jeans. We never returned to the laundry. It didn't take me any longer to wash the clothes by hand, while listening to nature's music. Besides, I got a better suntan.

Because I was nervous Nellie about using kerosene lanterns in close quarters with active kids, we ran twelve volt lamps off of car batteries. One year, Ed, who is always trying to build a

There is something special going on here, this 10th day of June. Lola Prentice is celebrating her 80th birthday; she is a great help in this place too. Each day she sees many things to do and proceeds to do them, instead of saying, why couldn't you? The auxilliary is catering to her birthday party today. Everything they do is surely okay. Lola is with son Bill and his dear wife, Lenore, with grandchildren, relatives and well wishes galore. What could she be wishing for more? We say God bless you Lola on this special day and hope that more birthdays will be coming your way.

We had a different service in the chapel this June day. Five young men came over from a group of 35, from Minden Gospel Church, just across the way. They played and sang so nicely for us. We hear so much about young people, it is good to hear about fine young people walking the straight and narrow way.

Our ladies working in the craft room are very condescending. They have just finished another quilt, knitting blocks for cushion tops and now they are doing mending.

On display at the Rails' End Gallery until June 23 is "Rags to Riches", an exhibition of antique floor coverings from the Joseph Schneider House in Kitchener.

Hooked mats were plain and simple floor coverings, which served to take the chill off bare wooden floors, and to add colour and decoration to austere nineteenth century surroundings. Today, however, we recognize hooked mats as strong visual statements, expressions of personality and documents of earlier lifestyles, and as such, they are widely sought after as valued works of art.

Mats on display have been hooked by various people, one recognizable name is Emily Carr. She began to hook rugs in the late 1930's, near the end of her career, when illness forced her to lead a more sedentary existence.

What's new? An exhibition of crafts from graduate students of Sheridan College. The work of these students is not to be missed by anyone interested in the development of craft today.

On June 28, the annual meeting of the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts will be held at 8:00 p.m. at the Haliburton Curling Club. All members are encouraged to attend this meeting.

In case you are not already aware of it, local buildings in the county are displaying the work of Guild artists. The co-ordinator, Chuck O'Neil, has arranged for the spaces to be filled with some very refreshing work by talented local artists. Make sure to drop by and take in these excellent displays. Participating spots are: Bank of Montreal and Bank of Commerce in Haliburton, Toronto Dominion Bank in Minden, and the Wilberforce Library.

Watch this column for information regarding next fall and winter's concert series. I've heard from Marilyn Stouffer, that the committee already has the performers lined up. Tickets will soon be available to the public.

Summer has finally arrived, and with it lots of exciting happenings at C.H.A.C.E. To keep track of all the events, please check the classifieds, but for now, here's a sneak preview: on June 21 we're doing messy crafts, so dig out your old duds and wade in. June 29 will feature a grand Bicentennial Party - for this one, bring out your old-fashioned clothes, and come for some old-time games and treats. On July 5, we're having a field day, and on July 13 and 14 there will be a giant Scholastic book sale. We'll be going on a nature hike July 19 to highlight Insect Week, and a cooking day on July 25 will round out Nutrition Week. Every Wednesday there is a story time at 10:30.

Last inning hits break tie games

Vince Duchene doubled to bring Sawyer across.

Three more went to the Kinsmen in the third as Sawyer, Duchene and Bill Whittaker each made the circuit after a fielder's choice, a double and a single respectively.

The fourth inning produced another run for the Kinsmen, a lead off homer by Barry Shaw.

In the bottom of the fifth the Kinsmen exploded for six more runs, putting the game effectively out of reach for the Beachli squad. Scoring were Carl Anderson, Brian Mulholland, Barry Shaw, Jerry Walker with a three RBI double, and Roy Scott.

The game was called at the end of the fifth.

Haliburton Lumber 6, Beachli Construction 5

Haliburton Lumber got off to a fast start in the opening match Thursday night, chalking up three runs in their first trip to the plate. Mike Hatkoski led off with a home run. Bernie Nicholls subsequently notched a single, Dwight Sisson singled to bring Nicholls home, and Leigh Bull singled to score Sisson.

The Lumbermen's three run advantage was unchallenged until the bottom of the fourth when Darrell Stamp, John Robinson, and Peter Fearrey each hit safely on, then scored, Stamp on Fearrey's single and Robinson, Fearrey and Tim Chambers on a three RBI double from Bob Johnston.

In the top of the seventh

Haliburton Lumber added two more runs to regain a one point lead. Rod Sisson doubled, Bernie Upton singled, then Mike Hatkoski connected for a double that drove Sisson and Upton across.

The bottom half saw Peter Fearrey crack a single that scored Darrell Stamp and forced an extra inning.

In the top of the eighth, Dwight Sisson led off with what proved to be the game winning home run as Beachli Construction left two men on base in their last chance at the plate.

Curry Motors 5, Kinsmen 4

Curry Motors got off to a fast start in Thursday's second game, scoring three runs in the bottom of the first inning. Neil Sisson led off with a single, then Wade Stamp connected for a two run homer. Kevin Sisson also scored after a single to give the motormen a 3-0 advantage.

They stretched their lead to four runs in the bottom of the third as Wade Stamp tripled and reached home on an error.

In the top of the seventh the Kinsmen stormed back to tie the score on singles by Vince Duchene and Bill Whittaker, an error that put Barry Shaw safely one, an RBI triple from John Wilson and an RBI single from Jerry Walker.

The Kinsmen were unable to force extra innings however, as Allen Cooper was safe on an error, and scored on a single by Barry Boice that gave the motormen a 5-4 win.

Doris showed us movies Monday night for our pleasure: "Billy of Switzerland", "African Animals" and "Wilderness Treasures".

We have just learned of the death of Victor Spencely. Our sympathy to relatives and friends.

Monday afternoon a willing lady came in from Canning Lake. She took myself and others on a nice wheelchair ride.

Tuesday morning Rev. Wicks of Minden Gospel Church held a very interesting service in the chapel this lovely June day.

We thank you for coming, and Fred Ballard, who had music to play.

Wednesday was a special day here at Hyland Crest. We were glad the day was fine. Thirty seniors from Bracebridge came over to dine with us. They played and we sang some good old numbers while dinner was being prepared. Then it was served expertly to us. We were entertained by Doris Brown. She really knows how to act the clown. She really brought the house down. We are sure the visitors enjoyed their stay, and said they would like to come back again some day.

Congratulations to Mrs. Trepanier who had a birthday on the 13th day of June. It was a lovely birthday cake that was presented to her at noon.

Wednesday night Earl Cooper came, along with wife and son. Cathy was detained elsewhere and just couldn't come. They are just great entertainers and we look forward when it is time to return to us again.

The Minden A.C.W. ladies served a lovely lunch this Thursday. Then Debbie Vaughan and Bill Payne came for a sing song.

We want to thank the Kinsmen members who came Thursday night to put on th bingo, Don and Opal Crowe.

Our entertainers came again this Friday, Grace to lead us in a sing song, Fred Ballard with music to play. Grace always has interesting rhymes to tell us about this and that.

Ministry a family calling

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

Life as a minister is a special calling, but for John James, minister of Haliburton United Church, the ministry has become something of a family tradition. Recently, James travelled to Aylmer, near London, to attend the ordination of his younger brother Paul, the fourth member of the family to enter the ministry. James' father, Reverend Merrill James, is a United Church minister and pastoral head of St. Paul's United Church in Tillsonburg. Although each of his three sons began to pursue careers quite different from his own, eventually all three made the choice to follow in their father's footsteps.

John James, who has been a minister for seven years and has served the Haliburton community since January of 1981, originally decided to study law. His brother Orville, who is now an associate minister at Riverside United in London, obtained a Bachelor of Science degree and considered attending medical school before he made the decision to follow his father's example. Likewise, Paul, the youngest of the three boys, studied political science and had hoped to gain a position in the government or to enter teaching, before he changed his course of study to theology.

While all three brothers have remained close to their father in terms of the life they have chosen to lead, geographically, the James family has been spread apart. After finishing his degree in Theology at Queen's, John James and his wife Barbara moved to New Brunswick, where they lived until coming to Haliburton. Following his ordination, Paul has taken a position at a church in Wawa, while his father, who has been a minister in Tillsonburg for the past six years, is preparing to leave his post there on July 1 to take up a position at St. James United Church in Islington. Similarly, Orville intends to go to Princeton where he will begin work on a doctorate in Ministry.

better mouse trap, decided we were going to have a wind-mill. Several hours were spent in the city contriving a device out of one car generator, one voltage regulator, and a twenty-four inch fan blade with twelve inch, plexi-glass extension paddles. The whole family helped to install the gismo atop the old flag pole when we arrived up north. With a certain amount of "fanfare", we released the blades to the breeze that was to give us light, so to speak. Well, the wind did blow, and the fan did turn quite briskly, but, though we all watched the voltage gauge patiently for about two days, six volts was as high as it got.

A couple of years later, it was still there when we got a really big blow. I think it finally would have registered 12 volts just about two seconds before it took off across the lake.

Resident fishing licence proposed

A provincial conservation authority has presented the Ontario government with a proposal that could see an additional $12 million spent on sport fisheries each year.

The Peterborough based Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters wants the province to approve a $5 licence fee for resident anglers and turn all of the money back into fisheries enhancement projects. The Federation says surveys it has conducted show anglers favour the licence provided the revenue generated is used to improve fishing. Typical projects could include regional hatcheries, habitat rehabilitation, improved access, pollution control, enforcement and data collection.

The Federation says it is willing to administer the licensing program through existing license issuers if the province will give the lobby group that authority and pass legislation requiring resident anglers to purchase a licence. A separate corporation could be established to gather the funds, and an independent board would then determine which projects to assist, the OFAH says.

While Premier Bill Davis stated in 1980 that the province was considering a resident angling fee, no action has been taken to date, and Ontario remains the only province in Canada which does not require resident fishermen to buy a licence.

The latest proposal has been sent to provincial officials for consideration.

Local golfer to play in celebrity pro-am

Just about every weekend golfer dreams of playing a round with a famous professional, someone like Jack Nicklaus or Tom Watson, Lee Trevino or Fuzzy Zoeller. For most people that dream will never be realized, but for Keith Stephenson, owner of Haliburton Highlands Golf Club, it is about to come true for the second time in three years. Stephenson recently won a draw at the Aurora Highlands Golf Club that will give him a berth in the celebrity pro-am round which proceeds next week's Canadian Open Championship at Glen Abbey in Oakville.

Two years ago, Stephenson also won the draw, which is limited to 100 tickets and provides the $1200 entry fee for the celebrity pro-am. In that year he teamed up with Jack Nicklaus and two other amateurs, an experience that he describes as "unbelievable - the thrill of being able to play with him". The crowds following Nicklaus around the course were "intimidating" Stephenson says, but Nicklaus himself was friendly and a pleasure to be with.

Stephenson won't know who he'll be matched with this year until next Tuesday night, when names are drawn and teams formed for Wednesday's tournament. The lowest score is all that counts on each hole, so it's possible that one of the three amateurs with each pro will chalk up the fewest number of shots when handicaps are included. Stephenson's handicap is 17 for the tournament, so he'll get one uncounted shot on all but the easiest hole on the course. There are prizes for the highest finishing teams, of course, but they're not really the important thing; the real thrill is to tee off with one of the top names in golf.

This year's pro am tournament will be particularly memorable for Stephenson, since he's unlikely to play in another one for some time to come. His friends at the Aurora club have decided that winning two out of the last three draws for the pro-am prize is enough for the moment; he won't be allowed to participate in subsequent draws.

Even if his team doesn't win next Wednesday, Stephenson will come away from the tournament with more than memories. Each player receives courtesy prizes worth at least $400.

And of course, there'll be another picture to hang on the wall of his clubhouse in Haliburton, right beside the one taken during that memorable 18 holes with Jack Nicklaus.

A dirty cooling system can make your engine run hot

When dirt, rust and sludge deposits clog the tiny passages in your heater core, you're in for a long, uncomfortable winter behind the wheel.

That's because these blockages prevent your cooling system from circulating hot coolant from the engine through your heater to warm the inside of your car.

But you really don't have to freeze this winter. Because now there's a method of cleaning out your car's entire cooling system, including the heater core. With WYNN'S X-TEND Power-Flush and WYNN'S X-TEND Cooling System products. A new approach to cleaning and maintaining your automobile's entire cooling system, while helping to maximize cooling system efficiency.

WYNN'S X-TEND Power-Flush unit uses pressurized water and air to flush even those hard-to-reach areas of your cooling system.

So act now before a dirty cooling system can cause your heater—and your blood—to run cold.

THE HALIBURTON COUNTY ECHO AND MINDEN RECORDER

West Guilford News

By E. COOPER
Wade Stamp is home from Calgary for a summer visit with his parents, Faye and Grenville.

Ruth Lee, Kristine Sisson and brother Darren were at Ray and Norma's for the weekend. Kris' daughter, Andresa is spending a two week holiday there with her grandparents.

Holly and Sylvia Sisson are in Winnipeg for a Legion convention.

Visitors in the area for the funeral of Mrs. Shirley Sisson included Madeline and Ellis Smyth, Pat and Ron Smyth, Joan Varley, the Claude Woodcocks, Rick and Eleanor Poole of Winnipeg, and members of Byron Sisson's family of Elliot Lake. The large attendance at the service signified the kind of regard which Mrs. Andy Sisson held in our hearts and lives.

Sympathy of the community also goes to Charlie Yateaman and family in the loss of his brother, Jack.

Shirley Rapson has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Stan Cooper for several days. Cindy and Ian Foster also called on her on the weekend when they were guests of Greg and Cheryl Cooper.

Nancy and Doug Young of Barrie enjoyed a Saturday evening visit at Earl and Eleanor Cooper's.

Kay and Perry Morrison spent an enjoyable day with Kay's mother, Mrs. Turriff, at Bancroft on Sunday.

The Anglican Youth Group had a successful barbecue on Sunday afternoon, thanks to their hosts, Barb and John Callard of Cranberry Lake.

This group also has plans for other summer activities. Come to St. Andrew's. We'll keep you posted!

Bill Reynolds of Oshawa called on friends here and stayed at the Redstone Lake cottage for a few days.

Alma Morrison's friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Austin, from Restoule came to see her recently.

Three recruits from West Guilford are attending a meeting for the first time with Haliburton Little Theatre. We'll keep you in suspense until the names go up in lights! The meeting took place at Curtis Eastmure's of Maple Sands.

Congratulations to Jenny Barry, daughter of Lloyd and Marion, who graduated from Durham College as legal secretary. She is presently employed at the Good Medical Centre.

Joanne Elizabeth Robinson, daughter of Beverley Robinson and Bradley Robinson of Dorset, graduated from the University of Western Ontario on June 13, 1984. Joanne received her Honours Bachelor of Science degree, majoring in Computer Science with a mathematics minor. She attended the Dorset Public School and Huntsville High School. Joanne has accepted a position with IBM Canada Limited in Markham.

Norland Natter

By KELLY GRAHAM

Well, today is the first day of summer, officially. Now, no matter what Mother Nature says we know where we stand.

Congratulations to Norland Public School for their excellent showing at the recent Victoria County Track and Field Meet. The Norland P.S. students participated with Coboconk, Kinmount, Kirkfield, and Burnt River as part of the Northern Schools team. That team placed third overall.

Steven Brohm, son of Irene and Bob Brohm of Norland, recently received the Bachelor of Science with honours degree during graduation ceremonies held at Queen's University on May 26, 1984. Steve was a former student of Norland Public School. Congratulations Steven.

Congratulations to Bert and Tina Lauwer who were recently blessed with a son, their firstborn. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Rutter of Coboconk are proud grandparents.

Congratulations again (what a lucky week) to Trent Watson, of Norland, who will be marrying Kristine Diebel, also of Norland, on June 13.

Good luck to Dusty Papke, principal at Coboconk P.S., at his new job at Fenelon Falls Public School.

Les Thomas, of Norland, recently informed me that the Horticultural Society is busy planting flowers in our area.

Evelyn Vanderland, who was in charge of the bicentennial quilt project, read a letter from the Agriculture Museum in Milton announcing the results of the competition. First place went to Mrs. Bushell of Wingham whose many prizes included one won at the International Ploughing Match recently. It depicted scenes relating to the coming of the United Empire Loyalists. This will be presented to the Queen.

All the quilts will be on display at the Museum in Milton until August 31. A quilter and three guests are invited to the presentation of awards in Milton on Sunday, June 17.

Len Smith at the piano and Walter Baron on the accordion led in a hearty sing-song.

The rest of the evening was spent in bridge, euchre, carpet bowling and indoor lawn bowling.

June 27 is the time of the monthly pot luck meeting. Come and join our group which is steadily increasing in numbers.

There were more than 160 entries from all over Ontario in the quilt competition. Although our quilt won no prize, the project was worthwhile for it created a spirit of co-operation, interest and pride in our accomplishment. We thank our municipal council for its letter of appreciation for our bicentennial effort and assure you of a chance to view our handiwork after August 31.

At the Ontario Senior Games held in Haliburton last week there were some winners from our area. Ina Smith won first place in cribbage. In the golf tournament Gwen Taylor placed third. Doug Hughes came third in the bridge tournament. Several other area residents participated in the games.

A donation of $110 from the Gooderham Bridge Club was given to the school teachers to help defray the expenses for the children's annual school trip.

The United Church Women met last Tuesday at the home of Violet Billings. Jean Goff, president, conducted the devotional period. Ruby Jackman gave an interesting and well-researched talk on women of the Bible, in particular the six mentioned in the four Gospels who were at the tomb of Jesus. After a business period the hostess served a lunch.

Grace Green of Lindsay visited her niece, Elda Hunter, and accompanied her and other family members to Peterborough Civic Hospital to visit her sister, Bertha McColl, whose birthday was that day.

Ruth Davey and Grace Maxwell of St. Catharines visited Vivian and Tommy Dovell for a few days recently. Ross and Myrtle Alsop and daughter, Shirley Nottingham, of Port Perry spent last Tuesday with Vivian and Tommy Dovell.

Evelyn and Hubert Alsop had a visit last week from their daughter, Adeline Hunter of Oshawa and two granddaughters, Marlene Moon and Linda Mollon.

Claribel Sheehan has returned to her cottage on Pine Lake after spending the winter months at Lakeland, Florida.

Lenore Rose was involved in an accident last week. She was travelling on highway 503 just west of Gooderham on her way to visit her son in Toledo when a deer ran across the road, crashing into her car and causing it to leave the road. As a result her car is a total loss. Lenore was badly shaken up but fortunately not hurt seriously.

A lovely roast beef dinner catered by the Recreation Committee was featured at a party at the Community Centre on June 8 for Weldon McPhail who retired after seven years as building inspector and by-law enforcement officer. Those in attendance were the present council and their spouses and fellow employees of the municipality as well as the recreation committee.

Head table guests were: Weldon and his wife Pearl; their son James and daughter-in-law Gloria; daughter, Carol, son-in-law, John MacNeil, and children, Timothy and Kimberley.

Ken Maguire, former reeve, acted as master of ceremonies.

Gifts were presented and everyone in attendance wished Weldon a happy retirement after a job well done. Weldon was honoured a few days previously by the office staff.

Home Support News

By DONNA BAILEY

In May we made an appeal for a convenor for "Art in the Hall". To our great happiness the response was three ladies who are willing to do this service - Marg Barnett, Peggy Podmore and Mary Walling. Thank you ladies for becoming our new convenors. They have already been in to our building and they have created a masterpiece from the 19 works including paintings, needlepoint work and knitted items submitted to us from nine artistic seniors. Their work brightens up the appearance of our hallways and adds a special warm touch to the Home Support offices, the Information Centre, the Drop-In Centre and the Committee Room. If you are a senior we encourage you to display your handiwork in our building. We do have insurance coverage. Drop in and see the entire display and have a coffee, visit and/or rest while you are here. Our office hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday to Friday.

We invite you to attend a general meeting of the Haliburton County Home Support Services this Friday, June 22 at 10 a.m. at the Drop-In Centre.

Following the meeting you are invited to a "Bring your own Picnic Lunch" at 12 noon and the official grand opening of the Drop-In Centre at 1 p.m. commencing with the ribbon cutting ceremony on our newly constructed patio.

Plan to attend all the events next Friday and bring a friend. If you have any questions or if you can use any of our services please call us at 457-2941.

This is forgiveness week at the Minden Library from June 18 to June 30. Please return your overdue books. There will be no charge on overdue books no matter how long you've had them out. Thank you.

There are card parties at the Library Cultural Centre Thursday afternoons with Wintario prizes, euchre and bridge. Funds go for the Museum. Everyone is welcome. Last week's winners were the following: Mac Eldridge, lone hand; Dorothy Reaman and Nancy Adamson.

I hope all you fathers out there had a happy Father's Day last Sunday.

Drive with extra care now that the children are getting out of school for their summer vacation.

Now that the strawberries are getting ripe you may want to try this recipe: Fresh Strawberry Sauce. 1/2 cup butter, 1 cup icing sugar, 1/2 cup fresh strawberries, slightly mashed. Cream butter; add sugar gradually, cream well. Add strawberries, a few at a time, blend well. Yields 1 1/2 cups. Suggested uses: blanc mange, tapioca, cottage pudding or ice cream.

If you have any news for me to include here, please call 286-3607. Thank you.

The drive in movies, "Drive for Christ" begin at dusk at the Allsaw Pentecostal Church on Highway 121 between Minden and Haliburton, Sunday, July 1. Admission is free. The movie is entitled "The Prosecutor".

Minden is getting another new face lift. The streets are being renovated, a new roof put on a business, the flowers are being well cared for and are really beautiful now and they are putting cages up along the hillside to hold the soil back.

Opening night for an art exhibit of paintings by Janet McGhee will be on June 28. Janet will be conducting a workshop during the show.

Drivers throughout Southern Ontario compete in various classes in the ATC Moto Cross competition at the Minden fairgrounds on Saturday, June 30.

Minden will be celebrating Canada Day on July 1 at the Minden fairgrounds with games, races, clowns, magicians and entertainment for the whole family.

Politicians have often said prosperity is just around the corner; however they never tell us what street.

Charlie Palmer dropped in for a visit last week. He has left Minden to take up new residence in Lindsay.

I mentioned last week about the use of tetrachloride to remove stains but neglected to tell you have dangerous it can be. It was banned in the United States. Before you use it, be sure you know what you are doing and all about it before you start, or better still don't use it at all.

Hint: Grass - to keep grass from being eaten by the birds before it has a chance to grow, soak it in a pan of clothes bluing overnight. The birds simply won't touch it.

There will be a strawberry supper and bazaar at the Ingoldby United Church Saturday, June 30.

Did you know that this is known as Senior Citizen Week? A few of our local residents have agreed to take part in a game of lawn bowling. Yes, Edna Cowen, Lola Prentice, Lily Hogg and Bert Harrison all from Hyland Crest have agreed to take on this job, which is not for their own benefit but one in which your much needed donations and pledges will go to help with the disease known as Alzheimers. This disease is a progressive brain condition which can strike anyone. It causes a decline in the memory and attacks the learning ability. This year's Ontario Nursing Home Association's theme is "Don't forget those who can't remember." So go ahead - pledge or donate. "A penny for your thoughts". Please help support Nursing Home Week June 17 to 23 by sponsoring the Hyland Crest bowling team. The team plans to raise funds for the 1984 society by lawn bowling Tuesday, June 19 at 2 p.m. but it still isn't too late to call in your pledges and donations this week. Call Hyland Crest and ask for Edna Cowen, Bert Harrison, Lily Hogg or Lola Prentice or you can call the activities director, Doris. They can all be reached at 286-2140. Better still, drop in and visit with those wonderful seniors. Please remember "A penny for your thoughts" and "don't forget those who can't remember". Please call today or drop in anytime.

The Stanhope Swim Program begins on July 3. There are qualified swim instructors to conduct the classes at the Halls Lake Municipal Park until August 10.

The Minden Swim classes run from July 2 to July 27. It will be $14 per child or $42 for a family of three or more.

That's all for this week. I hope to see you all next week.

The Maple Leaf hampers that were given out in the lucky draw at the new I.G.A. were won by the following people: Mrs. F. Courtney, Pat Watson, W.D. Evans, Olga Weaver, Martha Bartley, Ian Liness, Fay Orr, J.H. Black, and Marg Clappison. Congratulations to the lucky winners.

On Tuesday night, Mrs. Jessie Rutter was taken by ambulance to Ross Memorial Hospital. Jessie has not been well in a long time and her latest ordeal is very difficult for her. Remember this patient soul with yours cards of cheer.

There was element of sadness on Saturday, June 9 as the Warehouse vacated our main street. Saturday night, the contents were moved out to the former fruit market on the northwest corner of Hwy.

48, at Hwy. 35. We wish the Pat Deerr's much success in the new location - but our main street is so bare. It is to be hoped that some industrious soul will fill up the vacant shelves and windows and bring some life to "downtown".

Harold Rutter of Scarborough has been visiting his mother and brother, Mrs. Ruth Rutter and Garnet, and last week Harold and his mother visited the Jack Bradmore family at Little Britain on Port Hoover Road.

Mrs. Cindy McCall and her mom, Mrs. Ruth Hall, Aunt Ruby, all of Lindsay, were visitors of Sam and Millie Routley. Howard and Karen Hall and new baby of Toronto also visited the Routley's.

The music programme at the Legion Hall last week was a huge success and had a sell out attendance.

With the combined efforts of the Kinmount Civic Action Committee and the Somerville council, the public washrooms by the railroad station are now underway. Don Ragan of the committee reports that the septic system is now in place and it is up to the committee and the residents to pitch in and build the washrooms. The village has been solicited for donations towards the washrooms and the response was very good. Now needed is volunteer labour to build this washroom. If you can help in any way please contact Don at 488-2735 or drop in at the "D and D Variety".

Three students have been hired for the summer months in Kinmount. Their job will be to clean up around town, cut grass, clean up the river banks, etc. They will also be picking up garbage on the main street every Monday morning as of June 25. The Kinmount Civic Action Committee along with the Somerville council have quite a program planned to make the town a bright and clean place for both ourselves and our visitors but it cannot be left to just a few. It needs everyone to lend a hand so let's pull together in making Kinmount the brightest spot in Victoria County.

Mary and Bill Snodden visited friends and relatives in Pembroke and Chapleau recently and attended the first Communion of great nephew Jeremy Jones.

Re: the dart tournament at Kinmount Legion, Branch #441: 14 teams gathered to take part in a good day of darts from Kinmount, Haliburton, Cobocok, Beaver, Lindsay, Fenelon Falls and Cannington. High score was won by John Weaver. Team play started at 12 noon and the end results were Kinmount in first place, Haliburton second and Lindsay third. High score for the ladies went to Sheila Bowins. Cobocok took first place in the doubles, Cannington second and Lindsay third. The singles was won by Ken Stewart of Kinmount with second place going to Fred Knight of Haliburton. The Steward was a busy person throughout the day and thanks must go to the ladies' auxiliary for the sandwiches and hot dinner. As Albert Crego, the sports officer always says, you organize anything with the ladies regarding the Legion and they always come through for you.

The Walkathon for St. James Anglican Church took place Saturday, June 16 and there were 12 hardy souls who took on some 7 to 10 miles. We all finished the complete walk and our thanks to Art and Bernice Owens who supplied us with apples and pop and a place to relax a few minutes before heading back. Thanks also to Dot and Gladys Anderson and their helpers who awaited us at the church hall with hot dogs, tea and pop, and of course, we offer heartfelt thanks to all of you who sponsored each of us in our walk. We'll be around to collect soon.

The Meals on Wheels and Wheels to Meals are still doing well and for information you can call Ken Hyams at 488-2032.

I am glad to see Mary Phillips feeling better following a few days in bed.

The Township of Snowdon Bicentennial celebration will be held Sunday, June 24, starting at 2:00 p.m. at Lochlin Community Centre. This is family picnic day, with family ball games, horseshoe pitching, races, prizes for the children, also hot dogs and pop. Everyone is welcome.

Haliburton County Farmers' Association presents their "Farmers' Market", starting Saturday, June 30 at 9:00 a.m. and every Saturday morning following until Thanksgiving (weather permitting). The folks will be in the Municipal parking lot in Minden with syrup products, fresh fruit and vegetables as they come into season, as all the produce must be grown in the County of Haliburton. There will also be baked goods and fresh eggs plus delicious homemade preserves.

The Galway Baseball Association thanks very much at this time, the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch #441, Kinmount, for their very generous donation recently.

Well folks, stay well and happy, read the Echo, call me at 488-2353 and have you ever noticed that people who forget to turn off their car headlights always remember to lock their doors?

A Pinch of Sand

By H. JEAN BROWN

In New Orleans dining out is the custom, not the exception. No wonder for no other American city can boast the number of quality of its restaurants. New Orleans chefs created Eggs Benedict, Oysters Rockefeller, Angels on Horseback and countless other world famous recipes. If in the city breakfast at Brennan's is a must.

Brennan's Eggs Hussarde

Rusks or English muffins
Broiled tomato slices
Sliced Ham
Poached eggs
Quantities depend on number of persons. For each individual serving on 1 rusk place 1 slice of ham, a spoonful of Marchand sauce de vin, 1 slice of broiled tomato, 1 poached egg and a dollop of hollandaise. Serve at once.

Sauce Marchand de Vin

½ lb. mushrooms
½ lb. diced ham
½ cup red wine
4 shallots
¼ cup butter
½ tbslp flour
1 small onion minced
½ cup bouillon
salt and pepper

Vegetables and hame should be finely chopped. Cook in butter until golden brown, then stir in bouillon and wine. Mix flour with a little water and stir into mixture, continue stirring until smooth, simmer 20 minutes. Season. Enough for 6-8 servings.

Hollandaise au Brennan

4 eggs
juice of 1 lemon
½ cup butter melted
salt
white pepper
Beat eggs in top of double boiler. Add lemon juice and beat. Put pan over hot water but not touching the water. Stir in butter. Cook, stirring with wooden spoon until hot and fluffy. Season. Enough for 6-8 servings.

Farmers view animals

By ERNEST HILLS

On Saturday, June 16 the Haliburton County Farmers Association director for large animals, Ingram Wessell and his wife, hosted the monthly general meeting. Approximately 40 people were on hand to socialize at the afternoon picnic and to learn something of large animal husbandry here in Haliburton County.

Let me first thank Mr. and Mrs. Wessell, on behalf of the Association, for being such superb hosts and for their efforts in planning such an entertaining and informative afternoon. Ingram has made a valuable contribution to the farm organization in his representation as director of large animal husbandry.

The afternoon commenced with a team-drawn wagon ride to the shore of the Gull river, on the Wessell farm, where the families joined in a picnic lunch. Afterwards the group was brought back to the farm buildings, where Ingram led them on a barn tour. Included in some of the sights, of course, were the Wessells' magnificent Belgian draft horses, including two impressive stallions. As well, a number of cattle were in the barn for general viewing.

Following the barn tour two films were shown. One dealt with the heavy horse pulls, which remain a popular attraction at our local fairs. The second film showed aspects of raising beef cattle, including a visit to the abattoir where the grading of the meat was explained.

After the films, those on hand listened to Carm Hamilton, agricultural representative for Victoria-Haliburton, on some of the programs and initiatives currently underway in an effort to shore-up the ailing beef industry. Those programs he outlined included the beef herd improvement program, the weaning weight program for calves, and the all-inclusive red meat stabilization plan, portions of which are currently underway, pending further recommendations from the committee studying the proposals.

This year the weaning weight program for calves was offered to area farmers. However only three of our local cattlemen have undertaken to participate. These initiatives are established on behalf of all the cattlemen in the province in order to stabilize and enhance the red meat industry in Ontario. If they are not willing to support these programs on their behalf then there is no credence to their 'beefing'. For further information contact the agricultural office in Lindsay.

Also on hand for a brief introduction to the membership were representatives from Katimavik. This week I had an opportunity to meet with Chris Niles, who is the team leader for the Minden undertaking, and who explained to me a little bit of what Katimavik is all about. These young people are here from across Canada to learn about other Canadians and the communities in which they live. To the members of the farmers association I would say this, that we are an integral part of the community and rural life in general, so don't be hesitant in reaching out and for a brief time sharing your day-to-day sense of purpose and community with these young people, while learning something about other parts of the country. For further information on the program and how you might assist contact Chris Niles at 286-3777, or myself. The farming community is still the heartbeat of Haliburton County.

Writers' Corner

Forehead as cowl and out-jutting chin,
My what a temper our Kelsey is in.
Easy to see that her whole world's awry
By the thrust of her lip and the storm in her eye.
Defiance expressed in her smouldering glance
And stubbornness there in each line of her stance.
Little fists clenched, feet planted apart,
But its all just too much for her generous heart.
Little lips quiver, a sob and a tear
And now once again, our sweet Kelsey is here.
An oh what a sunshine enlightens her face
As she gathers her world in her loving embrace.
Dear little Kelsey, so forthright and true,
It's not hard to forgive the odd tantrum or two.
And I hope and I pray that as long as you live
You will find love returned for the love that you give.
